Sound That Serves the Worship

Use the first tagline as the primary. The others are for context variations (proposals, social, leave-behinds). Never use all three in the same layout.

BRAND VOICE

- ✓ Speak outcomes: "clergy heard clearly in the narthex" — not "Dante-networked DSP."
- ✓ Liturgically fluent. Know the space before you name the equipment.
- ✓ One specialist, Craftsman tone. No corporate language.
- ✗ No jargon in client-facing materials.
- ✗ No urgency tactics, no upselling language.

SPACING SYSTEM

- 4px — icon gaps, tight details
- 8px — inline element gaps
- 16px — component padding
- 32px — section inner spacing
- 64px — section breaks
- 96px — page-level top/bottom

LOGO CLEARSPACE

Minimum clearspace around logo = cap-height of the wordmark on all sides. No text, icons, or borders within that zone.

BESPOKE SERIF — HEADLINES & LOGO

Aa Bb Cc

"The voice of worship, clear as stone."

Used for headlines, pull quotes, the wordmark, and any text that should carry weight and presence. The serif humanizes technical content — important in a space where the client is a parish priest, not a procurement officer.
